

I don't understand how limiting information (ie, news, traffic reports) that serves the public interest be a good thing for the American people. I seems reasonable that satellite radio can be beneficial in providing information as part of Homeland Security. Don't let this be an example of politics as usual.